Junxion, Inc. press release

JUNXION RECEIVES INVESTMENT FROM TRILOGY EQUITY PARTNERS

SEATTLE, WA – (May 8, 2006) – Junxion, Inc., the early market leader developing and selling wireless wide area network (WWAN) router solutions, announced today it received funds from an investment made by Trilogy Equity Partners, a private equity firm established by wireless industry pioneers including founding executives of McCaw Cellular Communications, Western Wireless and Voicestream.

Trilogy partner Don Guthrie has joined Junxion's board of directors. Mr. Guthrie is a long-time veteran of the wireless industry, having served as Senior Vice President and Treasurer of McCaw Cellular Communications, Vice Chairman of VoiceStream Wireless (now T-Mobile USA), and Vice Chairman and Chief Financial Officer of Western Wireless Corporation.

"In less than two years, Junxion has debunked conventional industry assumptions by proving that the Junxion Box not only creates incremental sales of cellular data services, but also that leading wireless carriers like Cingular and Sprint will team with Junxion to help accelerate adoption of wireless WAN data service," Guthrie said. "The company has been extraordinarily disciplined, focusing on building a viable business by offering solutions that are truly market-driven through a highly leveraged and scalable sales channel strategy."

Acknowledgement of Trilogy's investment in Junxion comes on the heels of formal announcements confirming the Junxion Box has been certified by both Sprint and Cingular for a wide range of enterprise and government applications utilizing their respective wireless data networks.

"We are gratified by Trilogy's decision to invest in Junxion," said David Hsiao, Junxion president and co-founder. "As we rapidly gain momentum working with carrier partner sales teams in the U.S. enterprise marketplace, the strategic counsel that Trilogy brings to our venture is invaluable."
